CANFIELD COMING HOME TO PLEAD

Friends Hear that He Will Save His Millionaire Patrons from Having to Testify in Gambling Case.

HE WILL CONFESS GUILT.

Richard Canfield is coming home to plead guilty to the charge of running a gambling-house and to save his millionaire patrons from humiliation, according to a friend. District Attorney Jerome thinks this alleged friend, like the source of Ray Templeton's pull, is "an intimate friend of an intimate friend of an intimate friend" of Canfield. Report has it, however, that he will be back from Europe before Bucklin's trial. Powerful influence has been brought to bear upon him, and it is said that men whose names have never been mentioned in connection with the gambling-house have successfully urged him to return.

DUMMY SLEUTHS CAUGHT A THIEF

Store Detectives, Disguised as Wax Figures, Stood Guard at Night and Discovered the Mysterious Leak.

WATCHMAN LOCKED UP.

There are many novel ways of catching a thief, but none more so than the way Otto Brandes, chief watchman at the dry-goods store of Adams & Co., No. 516 Sixth Avenue, was caught in his piffling. Small thefts have puzzled the firm for several months and the management finally came to the conclusion that the piffling was done at night.

Adams & Co. have a large establishment, with many floors, and the puzzle was how to keep the watchmen in sight all the time. The problem was finally solved by dressing the detectives as dummies. With masks of wax they stood rigid and motionless, but as soon as the watchman passed the heads of the dummy dummies slowly turned and looked in the direction he had taken.

The dummies noticed that the watchman often paused at certain counters, but they never saw him take anything. But articles from the counters where Brandes stopped would always be missing.

Finally it was decided to search Brandes's house, and last night detectives went to No. 516 Washington Street. They found rolls of silk, rings, toilet articles and solid silverware. Brandes was arrested. The goods were identified.

TRAINS HAVE BEEN STONED.

Detectives Looking for the Rascals Along New Haven RR. (Special to The Evening World.) WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., March 5.—Detectives are watching all along the New Haven Railroad from New Rochelle to New Haven for men or boys who have been stoning freight and passenger trains.

Harry Chrysler, a freight brakeman, was found and caught by a sharp rock which was thrown through a window near Elmsford. Several passengers on a passenger train have also
